

Powys Amateur Radio Club Mission Statement

The Powys Amateur Radio Club's (PARC) mission is to provide and promote a learning base for all the various fields of Amateur Radio, and as such we are dedicated to improving the skills of amateur radio operators, not only within our own club catchment area, but around the globe, calling on local skills to provide education & competition, and striving to utilise the advancing technology and scientific research within the hobby to promote both national & international friendship and goodwill.

PARC is of the opinion that participation in contests provide a good measure of operating skills valuable to amateur radio.

PARC will, where possible, maintain local amateur radio repeater stations in locations deemed appropriate for communication for both leisure activities and for use in any emergency situations.

Publicity for PARC activities will be sought in order to obtain more public and awareness of, and support for, the group and its capabilities.

PARC will constantly seek our new members in order to maintain and expand the group, it's capabilities, and the hobby in general.
